8/3/2022 4:29 PM PT	Hello team, This message is to follow up on what we talked about this morning. Starting tomorrow 8/4/22 we will have the team lining up to sign out vans. We need more organization in the morning for a smoother process. Nobody will be able to hold a spot for anyone else or grab a van for anyone else. First come first serve and one person at the wagon at a time. also.... we will no longer be switching equipment around. For example, everything for van 1 will be in van 1's pouch. extras will be assigned on a first come first serve basis as well. Thank you for all the hard work, let's go HK! I first want to say great job out there today team keep up the good work!

I'm writing this message because we had a few mishaps this morning. Nobody at any time should swap keys from pouch to pouch. We had a few keys in the wrong pouch and I believe it happened because vans were parked in the wrong place. Just because van 35 was parked in 37's parking space does not mean van 35 is now 37. Long story short just please never swap keys, and if someone is in your parking space when you return let us know so points can be issued.

One more thing, when we are loading up and the Amazon managers yell out for us to return to our vans, we need to do exactly that. "Can I please have all drivers return to their vehicles," does not mean run to grab water. I also seen a driver take a whole case of waters! Let's be courteous and represent each other the right way.
